AKITA SHOTEN (3 Japanese-language issues)

Manga One-Shots

Bessatsu Bôken'Ô (adapts Planet of the Apes)

(w: Jôji Enami, a: Jôji Enami)

Tengoku Zôkan (adapts Planet of the Apes)

(w: Minoru Kuroda, a: Minoru Kuroda)

Weekly Shonen Champion (adapts Battle for the Planet of the Apes)

(w: Mitsuru Sugaya, a: Mitsuru Sugaya)

NOTES:

- These film adaptations, published only in Japan (in 1968, 1971 and 1973, respectively), are extremely difficult to find in today's market. It is unknown whether others exist. The Bessatsu Bôken'Ô adaptation also appeared in a Saru no Wakusei (Adventure King) quarterly collection.

GOLD KEY COMICS (1 issue)

Film Adaptation

Beneath the Planet of the Apes

(w: unknown, a: Alberto Giolitti)

NOTES:

- This 1970 adaptation was published with a fold-out poster.

COLORFORMS (1 comic strip)

Instruction Booklet

Planet of the Apes Colorforms Adventure Set

(w: unknown, a: unknown)

NOTES:

- Produced in 1974 as part of the TV show's merchandising efforts, this set contained a 1967 copyright date, which is in error and would have been before the first film's release. Its instruction booklet featured a comic strip in which the movie's characters explained how to use the vinyl adhesive toy.

NOTES:

- The series ran from 1974-1977. Issues #7, 16, 18 and 25 contained only movie adaptations, while #22 and 29 featured only original stories.
- The Marvel UK series ran for a total of 139 issues. The Apeslayer storyline, adapted from Marvel's Killraven series, was created for the British series when the U.K. editors ran out of U.S. material to reprint. All other British issues reprinted material already published in the United States, though some stories contained additional pages or individual panels not included in the original versions.
- Details of Doug Moench's unpublished storylines were provided by Moench himself, as research for an article by yours truly in Simian Scrolls issue #16. All Marvel issues, including Moench's unpublished materials, are archived at Hunter's Planet of the Apes Archive.
- A page of Mayerik's artwork for "Journey to the Planet of the Apes" may have been repurposed as the cover for Marvel UK issue #117.
- "Forbidden Zone Prime" was completed and was slated to appear in U.S. issue #30, but Marvel dropped the POTA license as of #29. Several pages have been discovered online, though not the entire storyline. Sonny Trinidad is credited as the artist on one lettered art page, but he denies having illustrated the story. Bob Larkin's unused cover for this issue was later repurposed for BOOM! Studios Planet of the Apes: Ursus.
- When Australian publisher Newton Comics began offering Marvel reprints in 1975, editor John Corneille hoped to see Newton produce original comic strips as well. Corneille suggested Planet of the Apes and brought Bentley, Paraskevas and Gates aboard, but the project was canceled after Bentley wrote a six-page strip. Bentley's full post is available at forums.pulpfaction.net/viewtopic.php?f=19&t=3246.

Planet of the Apes: 4 Exciting Stories

(repackages all four film adaptation audios, sans comic books)

NOTES:

- Each comic contained an accompanying audio recording. Conquest of the Planet of the Apes was not adapted, possibly due to its subject-matter being deemed inappropriate for young readers. Planet of the Apes: 4 Exciting Stories repackaged only the audios, not the comics.
- Peter Pan also produced four original audio tales based on the live-action TV series, released both separately and in a combined set titled Planet of the Apes: 4 Exciting New Stories. However, these stories did not come with comic books. All Peter Pan Apes titles were released in 1974.

f) From Out of the Sky	(comic strip)	(w: unknown, a: John Bolton)
g) Flight From Terror	(prose story)	(w: unknown, a: unknown)

NOTES:

- Each volume contained a selection of comic strips and prose short stories. No writer or artist credits are available for the above tales, though John Bolton and Oli Frey are known to have been among the artists involved. Given the existence of a character named Verina Bolton in "From Out of the Sky," it can be assumed that John Bolton illustrated that tale.

NOTES:

- These illustrated filmstrips, released in 1975 (and only in the United Kingdom), adapted several TV series episodes combined with the first film's courtroom scene, in a set similar to the Give-a-Show Projector sets sold in the United States. The set contained 16 filmstrips featuring two chapters apiece. Fan-remastered versions are archived online.

Encounter With Edison	(w: Jorge Claudio Morhain, a: N/A)
The Archeologist	(w: Jorge Claudio Morhain, a: N/A)
The Queen	(w: Jorge Claudio Morhain, a: N/A)

NOTES:

- This unlicensed series based on the TV show was published only in Argentina. The seventh issue was numbered #1 on the cover because the company had changed its name to Editorial Tynset S.A. Fan-produced English translations are archived at potatv.kassidyrae.com/simios.html. Morhain provided details of his unpublished tales for an article published in Simian Scrolls magazine; according to Morhain, Mulko would have drawn these issues as well had the comics not been canceled.

YOUTH NEWSPAPER COMPANY–MOKÉP (1 Hungarian-language issue)

Novel Adaptation

A Majmok Bolygója (English: The Monkey Planet)

(w: Zórád Ernő, a: Zórád Ernő)

NOTES:

- Budapest-based publisher Youth Newspaper Company–MOKÉP produced this unlicensed 1981 adaptation of Pierre Boullé's novel La planète des singes. Scans of the comic, with fan-made English translations, can be found at Hunter's Planet of the Apes Archive. The comic originally appeared in two-page increments within the pages of Füles, a Hungarian crossword puzzle magazine.

The Death of Golden Hair

(w: Harry Mintareja, a: Harry Mintareja)

Comic Card Sheet

Makho the Savior (adaptation of issue #1)

(w: Harry Mintareja, a: Hend Dri)

NOTES:

- Indonesian publisher Maranatha produced these unlicensed comics from 1980 to 1981. Although some covers contain Marvel Comics' "Stan Lee Presents" logo, they had no affiliation with Marvel. The first two issues were each produced with two different covers. Issue #5 ends with a note that the next tale would be "The Great Godzila," but the interior artwork for that tale was stolen from Maranatha's office. As such, issue #6, titled "The Death of Golden Hair," does not pick up where #5 leaves off. The intended issue #6 was never published. English-translated versions were created by Rich Handley and translator Bayu Pradipta, and are available for downloading at Hunter's Planet of the Apes Archive (<https://pota.goatley.com/comics/indonesia/>).

Planet of the Apes: The Monkey Planet

(reprints monthly issues #1-4)

NOTES:

- Details of the unpublished storylines were provided by the authors themselves as research for the books Timeline of the Planet of the Apes and Lexicon of the Planet of the Apes, by Rich Handley.
- Christopher Sausville's Planet of the Apes Collectibles: Unauthorized Guide with Trivia & Values referenced an unpublished Malibu tale titled Nova Comes Along. According to Malibu co-founder Tom Mason, however, no such story was ever planned, and none of the writers recall having ever pitched a Nova-centric tale. When asked about this via e-mail, Sausville indicated that he had received the information from a fellow collector who may have been in error.

"The Believer"

(w: Sam Agro, a: Sam Agro)

NOTES:

- Revolution (early titles: Combat on the Planet of the Apes and War on the Planet of the Apes) was to have featured Thade (from Tim Burton's film) and Caesar (from the original movies). Richard Pace created a poster as well as interior art pages utilizing Thade, but Fox opted to keep the two incarnations separate. Pace's artwork was presented in fan magazine The Forbidden Zine #1, with Pace's permission.
- Empire on the Planet of the Apes, a proposed follow-up miniseries, was canceled due to low sales on Revolution.
- "The Believer," written as a back-up story for Revolution, was written, penciled and lettered by Agro, but did not run due to Templeton's concerns about its religious overtones. The tale later appeared in issue #16 of Simian Scrolls magazine, with the author's permission.
- "People News" was originally released as a free online preview, titled "People in the News."
- "Little Caesar" was previewed in issue #1 of Mr. Comics' Big Max, under the title "Armando's Marvelous Menagerie Circus."
- A planned trade paperback would have collected Revolution, Pace's artwork and "The Believer," but Mr. Comics never released it.

NOTES:

- Most issues of BOOM!'s series have been published with multiple covers, including several rare retailer incentive variants.
- The Rise of the Planet of the Apes prequel was serialized in six parts at www.apescomics.com in 2011, but is no longer available at that site—though it can be downloaded for free at the Comixology website: <https://www.comixology.com/Rise-of-the-Planet-of-the-Apes/comics-series/6772>.
- Before the Dawn originated as a webcomic at www.apes2014.com, and was later printed for distribution at San Diego Comic Con 2013.
- Contagion debuted at San Diego Comic Con 2014, and is now available at BOOM! Studios' website.
- The ashcan preview of Star Trek/Planet of the Apes: The Primate Directive was distributed at New York Comic Con 2014.
- Reprints of Marvel's Terror on the Planet of the Apes were announced in 2011, but no further news about this project has been forthcoming.
- Early titles for Exile on the Planet of the Apes included Menace of the Planet of the Apes, Vengeance of the Planet of the Apes, Vengeance on the Planet of the Apes and Peril on the Planet of the Apes.
- BOOM! also published a Planet of the Apes coloring book for adults, featuring panels from BOOM!'s and Marvel's comics.
